Commenting on the occasion Mr. Devansh Jain – Executive Director, Inox GFL Group, said, "We are excited about the emerging opportunities in the sector and believe Inox Wind Limited is well positioned to leverage them as India aims to generate 50% of its energy from non- fossil fuels by 2030 thus unlocking huge potential for the sector. The infusion of funds is a strategic initiative by promoters ensuring strong support towards sustaining significant growth going forward."

Mr. Chetan, Managing Director – Samena Green Limited said "We are excited to be partnering with Inox Wind Limited, we believe this sector has a huge potential and Inox Wind Limited is well positioned to capitalise it. Given the global shift towards renewables with India playing a leading role towards carbon neutrality, we believe this partnership will be fruitful for all stakeholders. We will forge a long term partnership with Inox Wind Limited and be a key stakeholder in its growth journey."

Commenting on the occasion Mr. Kailash Tarachandani, CEO of Inox Wind, said "This round of fund infusion led by promoters along with other investors not only reflects their confidence in the firm but will also enable in further accelerating the company's growth."

India, has an installed renewable energy generation capacity of little over 150 GW and aims to reach 500 GW by 2030. Prime Minister Narendra Modi had earlier stated that India will meet 50% of its energy needs from renewable sources by 2030. It would also achieve carbon neutrality by 2070.

India has been witnessing huge interest in the domestic renewable energy sector from large corporate and global investors. In one of the interactions last year India's power minister Mr. R K Singh had said that as much as USD 70 billion (about Rs. 5.2 lac crore) has been invested in the renewable energy sector across the country in the past 7 years.
